Fig. 4 — The Planting of Tree of Liberty in Zweibrücken, Germany.

The subject of this colour print by the German painter Karl Kaspar Fritz is the occupation of the town of Zweibrücken by the French armies. French soldiers, recognisable by their blue, white and red uniforms, have been portrayed as oppressors as they seize a peasant's cart (left), harass some young women (centre foreground) and force a peasant down to his knees. The plaque being affixed to the Tree of Liberty carries a German inscription which in translation reads: 'Take freedom and equality from us, the model of humanity.' This is a sarcastic reference to the claim of the French as being liberators who opposed monarchy in the territories they entered.

Read the example for the coming class

Example of Economic Problems

- A merchant travelling in 1833 from Hamburg to Nuremberg to sell his goods would have had to pass through 11 customs barriers and pay a customs duty of about 5 per cent at each one of them.
- Duties were often levied according to the weight or measurement of the goods.

Example of Economic Problems

- As each region had its own system of weights and measures, this involved time-consuming calculation.

Example of Economic Problems

- The measure of cloth, for example, was the elle which in each region stood for a different length.
- An elle of textile material bought in Frankfurt would get you 54.7 cm of cloth, in Mainz 55.1 cm, in Nuremberg 65.6 cm, in Freiburg 53.5 cm.

A scenic photograph of a coastal landscape. In the foreground, there are steep, dark green cliffs. In the middle ground, a sandy beach is visible, with waves breaking onto it. The background shows a clear blue sky and distant hills.
